

Web Extra!

Web Extra! Issue 1
Summer 2005

PSE News

Personal & Social Education newsletter for schools and agencies in Swansea

THE HIDEOUT

I couldn't stop worrying about the violence at home. My family said it was a secret. I just wanted to be normal. Now I know domestic violence isn't OK.

» WHAT'S GOING ON
Find out what domestic violence is and how it can make children and young people feel.

HIDE MY VISIT SEARCH

» WHAT CAN I DO
You can do something. Find out how you can be safe, who you can talk to, and more...

» HELPING A FRIEND
Worried about your mate? Want to help, but not sure what to do or say?

EXPLORING MY FEELINGS
Feeling confused? You're not alone.

» MORE HELP

Have you ever seen or witnessed domestic violence in your family?

SEND » Yes (64%) No (31%) Not sure (5%)

» CHILL OUT

Registered Charity No. 1054154 Disclaimer Copyright My Safety Feedback About Us

The Hideout is a new website from Women's Aid for young people who witness domestic violence. The Hideout offers practical support and advice to young people and has a "panic button" that instantly calls up another site in case an abusive parent enters the room. Other features include games designed to help young people express their feelings.

www.thehideout.org.uk/

D-world is a new website from Drugscope, the UK's leading independent centre of expertise on drugs. Aimed at young people, the site has stacks of information, including high quality pictures of drugs, drugs and the law, the history of drugs and advice on keeping safe. Young people can access support and advice about issues with their friends or family. Further features include games, real life stories and links to other useful sites.

D WORLD

D-world is brought to you by DrugScope

Thursday, 12 May 2005 Help | Site map | Site search

Home Facts Stay safe Projects Games The law

Welcome to D-world - for everything you ever wanted to know about the world of drugs

BOOYIES
Crazy things you never knew about drugs

BOOYIES
E-cards, wallpaper etc!

The Wacky History of drugs!

Worried? about a friend or relation?

First Aid
How to help

search print page bookmark page email page ask a nurse

www.drugscope.org.uk/dworld

tic TEEN INFO ON CANCER

understand it deal with it share it other stuff

TIC is here to help you...
Get honest information written specifically for you, advice and support on how to cope with cancer, and the space to share your experiences with other teens.

...understand it
Confused? Find out what it all means.
Facts on cancers, treatments, hospitals and more...
Get the information you need to know what's going on.

...deal with it
Feeling blue?
Wondering what is going to happen about school or Uni?
Want to know how other teens coped when they lost their hair?

...share it
Coming soon!
Want to get your experiences online & set up your own webpage?
Wondering what experiences other people have had?

WHAT'S NEW?
We are! TIC went live on 13th April and will be launched on 11th May. Dare to share - spread the word with a TIC wristband

TIC – Teen Info on Cancer is exactly what its name suggests. The website features animations and information about treatment, types of cancer and hospitals, and a section where people can share their experiences with one another. Very useful both as a tool for educating young people about cancer as well as a place for those struggling to cope with their own cancer or cancer in their family.

www.click4tic.org.uk